For the last few financial partners to come on board
before we leave

After almost 2 years of fundraising, Jenn and I are thrilled to announce that we are moving to Thailand. At times it felt like this day may never come, but now it is coming fast. We plan to arrive in Chiang Mai, Thailand, in time to celebrate Easter with the believers there.

There are still many details still to be worked out, including schools, language study, house, van, visa and many more. But the important thing is that we are going.

We wanted to thank all of you who have stuck by us during this long road of raising up partners for our ministry. It took longer than we thought, but your partnership has helped us through this season.

We are still looking for a few more financial partners for our ministry. If you would like to be one that puts us over the top, go to www.chogglobal.org/tjadams and sign up today.

Down South

Although we enjoy a lot about Canadian winters, the cold is enjoyed least of all! We have had an exceptionally long cold snap at the end of January and most of the way through February. It wasn't difficult then to leave these cold days and head south to warmer weather.

I (Jenn) was able to share both in Decatur, IN, and Summerville, SC, over the last two months.

Decatur brought me in to share at their Faith Promise Sunday. I shared about our ministry and spoke on the subject of unity amidst diversity. I was warmly received and so encouraged to be able to share about this topic that I am so passionate about.

In Summerville, Adelynn and I were able to share a challenge about the needs in SE Asia. There too we had warm fellowship with the COG there. In both places I was also able to share with several other pastors in the area and we have seen several partners join us!

We will miss many things in Thailand, but the hours in this van fundraising will not be one of them

Staying regularly connected while in Asia

Now that our move to Asia has finally arrived, we wanted to give you all a bit of an idea of the best ways to stay up to date with our work. We will continue to do these quarterly newsletters. If you are interested in keeping in more regular contact, we also send a weekly post via a newsletter service called Epistle. Epistle is more secure than this newsletter and so we are able to share more openly about what is happening with our family and our region. If you would like to receive our Epistle email, just scan the QR Code next to this paragraph.

We also have a prayer letter that goes out to our prayer team. If you want to join the team, email us at tjadams@chog.org and we will add you to the list.
